Update on Wisconsin Forward Testing

Great news! We are finishing up our Wisconsin Forward Tests before spring break! The kids have really worked hard, and I am proud of them. When we return from break, we have about a week or so before we start up our district MAP testing for reading and math. After that, we have STAR reading and math tests to complete. One more thing, I will also administer a reading benchmark test to check each child's reading level. Wow! This is a lot of testing! Please continue to get your child to bed on time, be sure they have a good breakfast and of course send a snack daily. Thank you for all you do to help your child find success!

Science

After spring break we will embark on a new science kit! The kids have been asking me when we will start! The kit is called "Landforms" and it is quite messy and very fun! The investigations introduce students to earth science. They learn about changes that take place with landforms. Also, they learn why it is important to study landforms. Try to point out different landforms you find in our community. You could also visit some sites on the internet to show your child what is beyond our neighborhood.
